Rights Reserved To The People

It is the purpose of the American newspapers' annual observance of a week to commemorate freedom of the press to remind their readers that this is one of the rights reserved to them by the First amendment to the Constitution.

The amendment, most memorable of the 10 articles of the Bill of Rights, reads: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble and to petition the government for a redress of grievance."

By context, by origin and by application since 1791, freedom of the press has been one of the foundation stones of American freedom, as fundamental as freedom of speech, assembly and religion, as vital to freedom as the dream of freedom, itself, and as jealously guarded by the people as any of the rights secured to them by the Constitution.

It cannot be noted too often that the freedom specified in the First amendment are guaranteed to the people, themselves—all the people. Thus, freedom of speech is a guarantee both to the speaker and the listener, just as freedom of religion is a guarantee to churches, to church-goers and to non-church-goers. By the same token, freedom of press is equally a guarantee to citizens interested in the operation of the press and to those who may choose to read or not to read. The entire First amendment is, in effect, a guarantee of freedom of opinion and action in those fields which are invariably the prime targets for oppressors.

Fortunately, Americans do not have to think often of their rights under the First amendment, yet unless they keep them under constant vigilance they invite danger. The war has illustrated cruelly what can happen to people who relax vigilance over their freedom.

No Exultation

There is satisfaction because heavy bombing of Tokyo and other Japanese targets by United States super-bombers now appears to be on a systematic basis. Gen. Arnold's official statement that the latest Tokyo raid is a "calculated extension" of American air power is a warning both to the Japanese and to Americans.

But there is a significant lack of exultation in this country over the prospect, the same kind that followed the beginning of large-scale bombing of German cities. It is a grim thing to think about the systematic destruction of cities and their inhabitants, so grim it is made bearable only by realization that the Germans and Japanese would be doing the same thing, had they succeeded with their strategy.

They determined what kind of war this would be by their preparations for waging it and by their decision to become belligerents. They must perish by the sword they seized, and in war there can be no nice distinctions between the guilty and the innocent. All must bear responsibility for the decisions taken in their name.

Presumably, in the days to come aerial raids on Japanese targets will become commonplace—as commonplace as they have been for more than a year in the assault on Germany. Destruction of cities, a must issue as recently as the beginning of the war, now has become a routine operation. The horror of war has been compounded by its new weapons.

Demonstration

Viewed as a demonstration of technique, the telephone strike was an impressive thing. Communications in some of the most important population and industrial centers of the country were bogged down efficiently, with the threat of a nationwide tieup ever-present in the background as a disastrous possibility.

If it were the intent only to prove that telephone workers are capable of causing widespread inconvenience whenever they feel like it, the strike would have to be called a success.

But it is unthinkable that such a thing was the real intent of this strike; it must have represented something more than a demonstration. Yet, the fact is that the public does not understand why the strike occurred. The practice objected to, of paying extra allowances to employees working away from home, in Dayton, hardly seems to be justification for a widespread strike.

In short, now that it's over, the public would like to know what was proved, other than the ability of organized telephone employees to inconvenience the public at will, and to interfere with war production—a point that was too obvious to need any proving.

Canadian Defense

Perhaps the best-fitting key to the political puzzle caused by a climax in Canada's bitter issue over conscription for overseas duty is the probability that the 16,000 men needed for replacements in Europe cannot be raised by the volunteer method at present, but might be found by the volunteer method if present circumstances changed. Defense Minister Gen. A. C. L. McNaughton has reported to commons that many home defense men are willing to be sent overseas, though they will not volunteer.

Canada's trouble lies between the French-speaking inhabitants of Quebec and the English-speaking (and English-thinking) residents of Quebec and the other provinces. The French minority, numerically too powerful to be over-riden, has taken what would be called a strictly isolationist attitude if it existed in the United States. The friction between this attitude and that of the Canadian interventionists now has generated heat sufficient to topple the government of Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King.

The climax has been a long time in the making; the immediate issue of conscription for overseas service dates back to the beginning of the war in 1939.

The Stars Say

For Tuesday, November 28

CONFLICTING testimonies are found in this day's astrological map. There are indications of definite progress and expansion in credit, money matters, constructive work as well as in all the finer things concerning social, domestic, affectional and artistic associations and ambitions. All should advance by the exercise of novel or original methods and in connection with large corporations or public relations. But impulsive or angry words and deeds would fail. Be circumspect and cautious in all activities, sincere and charming in romance.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year in which their own able and sensible tactics may win out against certain threatened dangers. This may menace from impetuous rash or disagreeable conduct, in both business and private relations. With originality innovation and determined efforts it is probable that influential personages may be graciously cooperative. Cultivate these by tact and charm, generously stimulated at this time, even to the exalting heights of romance and affectional fulfillments.

A child born on this day should have many excellent talents, artistic, scientific and inventive with charm and grace to win support from high places. Sincerity, efficiency and originality should assist to a happy career.

Unfinished Business

By James Thrasher

General Patton's lightning liberation of France was one of the great military feats of history, but it had an unfortunate and probably unavoidable after-effect. It started people thinking that the war in Europe was as good as over. It not only spurred the necessary planning for reconversion and postwar jobs, but also impelled many war workers to leave their jobs to seek work that paid less but promised future stability.

It is known now that General Patton's dash was halted principally by lack of supplies. One cause of that shortage was the fact that production had slumped with the good news. So now postwar planning must be slowed down while an effort is made to keep war workers on the job, and to get back those who have left.

Undersecretary of War Patterson has revealed that production of five important items of Army supply is from 17 to 40 per cent below present minimum needs. Henry J. Kaiser has hooked up the critical shortage of attack transports with the fact that in three months he has lost 26,000 workers from one shipyard, 28 per cent of its total force.

What is being done about the quit rate? There has been a government campaign, and Mr. Kaiser has predicted that the President will shortly appeal personally to workers to stay on their war jobs. But perhaps a more local and immediate appeal is needed from management and union officials.

A modest program of this sort that has attracted considerable attention in the East has been inaugurated by the Edo Aircraft Corp., a small factory on Long Island. This program stresses facts about postwar employment, on the theory that facts are the best means of building confidence, and that confidence is a potent antidote for the panicky feeling that a peacetime job must be found quickly before sudden victory leaves the worker high, dry and unemployed.

The Edo program's chief instruments are thrice-weekly editorials in a local newspaper, a postwar essay contest among workers, and a weekly early-evening broadcast from a New York radio station which gets a big listening response from day workers, and which is piped into the plant for the night shift to hear.

It may be impossible to determine whether government or local appeals are more effective in persuading workers that the war is far from over, and that nothing is to be gained by a sudden, harmful, misdirected effort to find immediate employment security. But surely co-operative endeavor toward this end can do no harm. In fact, it might serve as an encouraging preview of future co-operation toward creation of 60,000,000 promised jobs when the war jobs are finished.

Optimistic Outlook

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
EVEN IN my own lifetime I have seen the scourge of tuberculosis lose its sting. When I was a young practitioner of medicine 30 years ago we used to teach that every person who had reached the age of about twenty had at one time had some tuberculosis in the body. In country districts it was not considered to be quite one hundred per cent, but in crowded city districts we were certain it was universal.

Dr. Clendenening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

That did not mean that every one had active tuberculosis, and was going to develop consumption. Most people then as now overcame the invasion of the germ by the natural resistance of the immune processes of the body. But it did mean that at some time in their lives, so universal was the disease, everyone had engulfed a few tubercle bacilli which had lodged in the tonsils or the lymph nodes of the neck and got killed off.

Of course in those days the number of active cases, the persons in whom the disease did get a start, and the death rate, was about three to four times what it is now.

Fewer Cases

It is easy to see why the number of active cases are so much fewer today. I do not suppose any tuberculosis expert today would claim that any group in the population had been infected with the disease at some time in their lives 100 per cent. I have a report showing the tuberculin testing of a group of college students which shows a positive test in 44 per cent. (Only 4 per cent of these had active tuberculosis). This is the test that shows the ones who have ever in their lives been exposed and infected with tuberculosis.

Since our present conception of the way tuberculosis is spread is that every infected person got it by contact with another person who had an active open case, and since in the last 20 years the main object of the campaign against tuberculosis has been to find the active cases and eliminate them from circulation so they cannot contaminate anyone else, it is, as I say, easy to see why the number of latent cases in the population has so greatly diminished. If we remove the source of infection from daily contact with the members, especially the young members, of the family all over the country the actual number of infections is bound to go down.

That is why the case-finding campaign is so very important. The tuberculosis death rate dropped 33 per cent and 32 per cent respectively in the last two decades. If this average of approximately one-third reduction can be maintained every 10 years, the death rate will be 32 in 1950, 21 in 1960, 14 in 1970, and in the year 2000 A. D. there may be no deaths at all from the disease which was once called "The Captain of the Men of Death."

What does this case-finding campaign mean? Briefly it consists of examining every person in the population between the ages of 15 and 25 to see whether they have active tuberculosis. This may seem like a large order, but it is now quite systematically carried out on large groups such as college students, applicants for jobs in large industries, and, of course, the members of the armed forces represent probably the largest mass population group on which it has ever been carried out.

Tuberculosis attacks many organs of the body, but it is tuberculosis of the lungs that is the worst offender and source of other contamination, so we concentrate on that. It can be done rapidly by taking an X-ray of the chest of every person and examining the suspicious cases for activity. The use of the stethoscope, once supreme, is too time-consuming and uncertain, but can be employed where X-ray facilities are not available. And though it means a lot of work and trouble, the possibilities are glorious.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

G. C.—What is the most common cause of swelling of the tubes that go from the throat to the ears.
Answer: Obstruction of the Eustachian tubes is most commonly due to adenoid or tonsil infection.

H. C. F.—If a girl has had diabetes since the age of 13 is there any reason why she should not bear children?
Answer: Certainly not. A doctor friend of mine who specializes in diabetes has a club of mothers all of whom have had diabetes since long before the babies came. One has seven children.

G. P. T.—Is it true that doctors now claim there is no such thing as "shell shock" or "battle shock"?
Answer: The names have gone out of use in this war, one reason being that "shell shock" and "battle shock" victims were often never near shells or battles, a name used for them now is war neurosis.

Winterwear With Checks Appear

Capeltes and Vests Add Warmth, Style

By EPSIE KINARD

Checks dye-dipped for added attraction rivet eyes to some of the season's jauntiest suits and coats.

Beginning with woodpecker flecks and climbing the scale to hound-tooth size, checks flaunt colors like red, purple, green and pink; make outfits with trick suspenders that do everything but snap, as well as cape ensembles and suits which have the checks appeal of an old-time gambler's.

Good example of the checked vest, used as a fall for a monotone suit, is the Hattie Carnegie-designed model shown at the right. Pam tweed makes the cardigan-type suit, orchid silk the blouse, and purple-toned checks the back-buttoned armhole vest which begs to have a jacket removed.

Couple Wed In Ceremony Sunday Night

Miss Doris June Fieldhouse, daughter of Ralph Fieldhouse of Washingtonville, became the bride of Walter Pekkanen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Pekkanen of Poland, in a candlelight ceremony in the Washingtonville Methodist church at 7 p. m. Sunday.

Rev. W. C. Snowball officiated at the ceremony, attended by members of the immediate families and friends. Approximately 250 guests were present.

Attendants were Miss Helen Lindsay of Columbiana as maid of honor and Miss Lois Jean Tingle of Washingtonville, and Miss Elma Pekkanen, sister of the groom, as bridesmaids.

Thomas Hamrock of Poland served as best man with Leslie Tingle and Herbert Hartley as ushers. Vows were exchanged before a setting of palms and ferns and lighted candles.

Music for the ceremony was played by Mrs. William Pekkanen, sister-in-law of the groom. Mrs. T. C. Loughbottom of Washingtonville, vocalist, sang "At Dawning" and "Because."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white broadcloth chignon with fitted bodice, sweetheart neckline, and flared skirt which formed a train. Her fingertip veil was arranged in a coronet. She wore a string of pearls, a gift of the groom, and carried a white prayerbook, showered with carnations and baby's breath.

The maid of honor wore a blue hifion dress with lace trim and carried baby's breath and roses and the bridesmaids wearing old rose and yellow frocks, carried bouquets of the same flowers.

The bride's mother wore an aqua crepe gown and corsage of Talleman roses and the groom's mother, in green crepe dress, had a corsage of red roses.

The table where refreshments were served during the reception was centered with a bridal cake and lighted white tapers in crystal holders.

The couple left today for a wedding trip to New York. The bride, a graduate of Leetonia High school in 1938, is a graduate of Salem City hospital nursing school and is employed in the office of Dr. C. W. Dewalt, Columbiana.

The groom, a graduate of Poland seminary high school, is employed by the Carbon Limestone Co., Bessemer, Pa.

Guests attended from East Palestine, Columbiana, Poland, Ellwood City, Pa., Salem, Leetonia and Washingtonville.

Household Hints

If a button thread has given way and has torn a hole in the fabric, this must be first patched and reinforced before another button can be sewn in place.

Do zig-zag machine or hand stitching over tea cloths and dusters to prevent their tearing when they get thin.

Mend tears in clothing before laundering, if possible; otherwise tack tears together before washing and mend them properly later.

Lengthen the life of your linoleum by applying a coating of wax immediately after laying the linoleum. This will seal the pores.

A new dry cheese mix which can be stored safely for 12 months without refrigeration has been developed for shipment to Europe after the war.

When sheets get very thin, turn them sides to middle by cutting them lengthways down the center, and either oversewing the outside selvages together or joining them with a seam.

Liquids from canned fruits may be used in sweet sauces, gelatin dishes and puddings.

LADY'S STOMACH WAS LIKE A GAS FACTORY; MEALS TURNED TO GAS

One lady said recently that her stomach used to be like a "gas factory!" That is, when she ate a meal it seemed to turn right into gas. She was always bloated, had awful stomach gas pains, daily headaches and constant irregular bowel action. Now, however, this lady says she is FREE OF STOMACH GAS and she says the change is due to taking ERB-HELP. Her meals agree with her. No gas or bloot after eating. Headaches and constipation are gone. "Oh! what relief!" states this lady. "Why don't other gas and constipation sufferers get Erb-Help?"

ERB-HELP contains 12 Great Herbs; they cleanse bowels, clear gas from stomach, act on sluggish liver and kidneys. Miserable people soon feel different all over. So don't go on suffering! Get ERB-HELP. Lease Drug Stores, State and Lincoln Sts. Adv.

WHEN YOUR CO-WORKER SAYS:

"HOW ABOUT SIGNING UP FOR EXTRA WAR BONDS ON THE PAYROLL PLAN?"

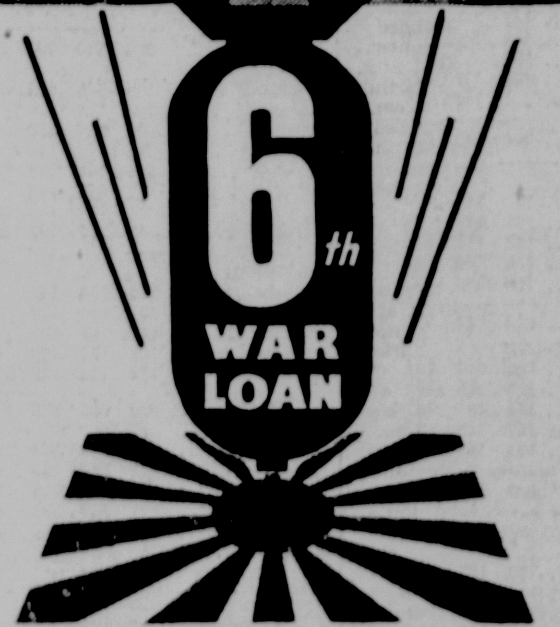

Remember it's Uncle Sam Asking You to BACK THE 6TH FOR FINAL VICTORY

SOME DAY soon one of your co-workers at your factory or office will ask you to sign up for at least one extra $100 War Bond on the Payroll Plan. Or perhaps a neighbor will call at your home and ask you to invest in extra bonds in the 6th War Loan Drive.

These men and women are Volunteer Workers. It is not Mrs. Jones or Mr. Smith who is calling on you—but your own Uncle Sam who once again asks you to back up our fighting men.

Perhaps you are asking yourself, "Why is the 6th War Loan necessary?" General MacArthur could give you the answer. He'd tell you that it takes millions upon millions of gallons of high octane gasoline to bomb Japan. He'd tell you that a B-29 bomber costs $600,000 in war bonds; that an "alligator" costs $30,000; that a Thunderbolt P-47 about $50,000. He'd tell you that from Pearl Harbor to Tokyo is 3,850 miles—and that the vast expanse of the Pacific makes bombing raids far more costly than any raids on Europe. Make no mistake about it—victory in the Pacific comes high. And we'll have to fight every inch of the way to Japan! And that means we must all back the Sixth for victory.

No Rose Bowl Game For Ohio's Championship Buck Gridders

Big Ten Rule Stays As Is, According To Vote Taken By League Moguls Sunday

BY HAROLD HARRISON

COLUMBUS, Nov. 27—There will be no crown of roses for Ohio State's mighty Bucks—1944 Western Conference football champions and winners of nine straight games.

The joy of their greatest regular season record in 24 years was dampened by disappointment yesterday when the Western Conference faculty athletic committee refused to allow the Bucks to accept a bid to play Southern California in the Rose Bowl on New Year's day.

The Big Ten has a rule against any post-season games and it was reported here unofficially that the vote in Chicago against changing the rule was seven to three.

That decision made it certain the 1944 team would be the first since 1916 to play all of its games without a defeat. The 1920 team didn't lose a regular scheduled game but was beaten in the Rose Bowl by California.

The all-civilian Bucks, coached by Carroll Widdoes who was serving his first year as head man of a college team, ran out of the string of nine straight triumphs here Saturday by coming from behind in the closing minutes to whip Michigan, 18 to 14, in a bruising, bitterly fought encounter before 71,958 fans.

News Comes At Breakfast
Athletic Director L. S. St. John, Widdoes and Ohio players were attending the annual football captains' breakfast when word of the Big Ten's decision was received.

Disappointment was written on every face and Widdoes shook his head sadly and said, "Well, it's too bad, but I guess that's it."

Later in the day, Tennessee was chosen as USC's opponent.

Of nine opponents, only Michigan was able to hold the Bucks to less than a two-touchdown margin and the Wolverines gave Ohio its most anxious moments of the season.

They led twice and were out in front by two points with only eight minutes and 29 seconds of play. It was then that the Bucks, using nothing but line plays, battered their way 52 yards in 14 plays for the game-winning touchdown.

Horvath and Widdoes were hauled to the dressing rooms on the shoulders of fans. The players tossed Widdoes and his assistants, fully clothed, into the showers and the dripping Widdoes shouted, "Boy, oh Boy, I'm willing to be thrown into the campus lake anytime for that."

"They played like the champions they are," he said.

ARMY-NAVY CLASH HEADS WEEK'S BIG GRIDIRON CONTESTS

Most Conference And Bowl Selections Already Settled

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 27. Eleven Saturdays of college football have determined the casts of the various New Year's Day bowl games, directed a majority of the Conference championships and left the Army-Navy clash as the top attraction for this weekend.

The Cadets and Middies tangle Saturday in Baltimore before a War-Bond crowd in a game Army must win to retain its No. 1 ranking in the Associated Press poll.

Previous Saturday's this fall have brought about this program for the Jan. 1 bowl games (team records in parentheses):

Rose Bowl—At Pasadena: Southern California (7-0-2) vs Tennessee (7-0-1).

Sugar Bowl—At New Orleans: Duke (5-4-0) vs Alabama (5-1-2).

Cotton Bowl—At Dallas: Texas Christian (7-1-1), one game left to play; vs. Oklahoma A. & M. (7-1-0).

Oil Bowl—At Houston: Rice (4-6-0), one game left to play; vs. opponent still to be selected.

Sun Bowl—At Paso, Tex.: Both teams still to be selected.

League Results

A roundup of Conference races presents this picture: Ohio State defeated Michigan Saturday, 18 to 14, and annexed the title, replacing the Wolverines and Purdue, co-champions of 1943. Michigan finished second and Purdue, although beaten by Indiana in a 14 to 6 finale, wound up third.

Big Six: Oklahoma must defeat Nebraska Saturday to retain the title outright for a second straight year.

Missouri Valley: Oklahoma A. & M. voted the laurels after defeating Tulsa, last year's champ, 46 to 40, Oct. 28.

Southern: Duke won crown for the eighth time in the past decade. Pacific Coast conference: Southern California repeats as champion.

Southwest: Texas Christian, given little chance at outset, ended two-year reign of Texas Longhorns by slipping past Rice Saturday, 9 to 6.

Southeast: Georgia Tech must defeat Georgia Saturday to retain crown.

East: Yale and Pennsylvania both unbeaten in the cloistered Ivy League but Army and Navy will clash Saturday for the Lambert trophy, emblematic of Eastern supremacy.

Service: Randolph Field, voted No. 1 among the service outfits, swamped Amarillo Air base, 33 to 0, to keep that honor.

Center Warrington of Auburn Blocks For Touchdowns and Forces Rivals To Run Outside

Tex Warrington carries terrific load for Auburn.

BY RED GRANGE

Co-captains Caleb Dan Warrington and Curtis Kuykendall are the only Alabama Poly players with previous experience, yet surprising Auburn outplayed Georgia Tech, Tulane and unbeaten untied Mississippi State rushing and passing.

Tex Warrington, 23-year-old, six-foot one-inch, 265-pound center, has carried a terrific load for Auburn.

The young man from Dover, Del., has played 4 hours and 22 minutes in six engagements, was compelled to perform for 57 minutes in the Mississippi State thriller.

Mississippi State's gains and scores were made on outside plays with the phenomenal Shorty McWilliams running down the sideline 56 yards from scrimmage and 94 yards on the kickoff that started the half.

Warrington engineered two of the Plainsmen's three touchdowns with great blocking.

Inspires Teen Age Kids
Warrington has a fine personality and his leadership of youngsters is magnificent.

As an example, the teen age kids around him decided to "play" the Tulane game for Tex. They lost it by a field goal, 16-13, with less than two minutes remaining.

After watching his Tulane team swamped Amarillo Air base, 33 to 0, to keep that honor.

LOOKS LIKE OLD FATHER TIME WILL HAVE TO BEAT JOE

Probably will Take Age and Nothing More To End Louis' Reign

BY HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK — Cpl. Billy Conn strikes the British Fancy's fancy, and word from there is that a lot of observers would like the Pittsburgh Collier Ad in an encore with Sgt. Joe Louis. Obviously, Corporal Conn has retained his speed while acquiring weight and strength. He would have to be given a chance, but the same old guy who has licked every real heavyweight champion, Father Time, will also account for Sergeant Louis.

From John Lawrence Sullivan on down the line history reveals that no Sgt. Joe Louis human opponent ever defeated a heavyweight champion while the latter was in his heyday.

Jack Johnson is the exception that proves the rule, and the evidence he offers is not particularly damaging. There wasn't much between James J. Jeffries and Jess Willard, before whom he fell and faded his eyes from the hot Havana sun at the ripe old pugilistic age of 37.

Sullivan had been "licking" any man in the house, had not been out in nearly four years, had participated in only three engagements during the previous six, was 34 when James J. Corbett ran him down.

Jim Corbett tackled Jim Jeffries twice after Bob Fitzsimmons popularized the solar plexus punch — came close the first time—but Jeff was too much, especially with the old bloke with the scythe on his side.

Ruby Robert gave the Old Man of the Hour the toughest battle of them all, yet lost the heavyweight crown to Jeff in his first attempt to defend it. He was 37 and his hands were brittle when he broke them to bits on the Boilermaker's granite jaw.

The fall of Jeff before Johnson in the clap-net wooden arena hurriedly pitched on the sage plain outside of Reno, July 4, 1910, was the most poignant. Through six years of saloon-keeping and retirement the insidious infighting of Old Pa T. had sapped the superb physique and prowess of a great gladiator, when at 35 he collapsed in 15 rounds.

Willard settled into a state of innocuous desuetude after scaling the heights, essaying only one battle, a 10-round no-decision affair with Frank Moran, in the four years that intervened before he dragged his pudgy bulk into the steaming battle pit in Toledo, July 4, 1919, to have Jack Dempsey put the period to old Daddy Time's erosive work.

Even the virile Dempsey couldn't withstand the silent beating of the Old Man of the Hourglass, and following a three-year sojourn down the velvet paths of luxury and inactivity, at 31 he too succumbed when the life went out of his tired legs against Gene Tunney in Philadelphia, Sept. 23, 1926.

After prevailing as he pleased over Tom Heeney, July 2, 1928, Tunney thumbed his nose at the Old Man and called it a career, the only heavyweight champion to make his retirement stick. The erudite Marine must have read the rule.

For two years and eight months now the guy with the hour-glass has been getting in whacks at the Brown Bomber past the guard thrown around him by Army discipline.

Jack Johnson is the only heavyweight champion who successfully defended the title after he was 30, and Lt. Arthur hardly had to do anything more than go through the motions until he ran out of gas against Jess Willard.

Today Joe Louis is a half a year older than 30, and there is no prospect of his fighting for months to come.

The llama, used in Peru for centuries as a beast of burden, can carry about 100 pounds.

Slamin Sammy Snead Tops Field In Comeback Match To Win Portland's Open

BY RUSS NEWLAND

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 27—Samuel Jackson Snead, hitting the comeback trail after 26 months of Navy service, was professional golf's man of the hour today, winner of the $15,500 War Bonds 72-hole Portland Open tournament. He tacked up a 289 to head a tie field of pros and amateurs and with victory pocketed $2,675 in War Bonds.

The husky Hot Springs, Virginian, followed by a crowd estimated at 5,000, hit his booming tee shots, scrambled frequently out of trouble, and putted well enough to lead Mike Turnesa, White Plains, N. Y., by two strokes at the finish.

Tied at 217 for 54 holes, the two had battled it out from the opening day. Snead led the first round with a two under par 70; Turnesa was a stroke behind. At the 36th hole, it was Turnesa 142 and Slamin' Sam 144. Snead deadlocked it at the end of the third round and outshot the New Yorker in the last eighteen.

Snead gained one stroke at the 63rd hole, doing the first nine of the last round in par 35 against Turnesa's 36. He picked up another shot on the incoming nine where Turnesa got off a couple of poor fairway shots and three-putted a green for a total of 291.

Snead Noses Nelson
Snead's initial effort after more than two years' absence from major competition highlighted an event that otherwise saw the start of what may be the crack-up of the noted tournament winning combination of Byron Nelson, Toledo, O., and Harold McGspaden, Philadelphia.

Between them, Nelson, former National Open and PGA champion, and McGspaden, second only to the former in money winning this year, have cleaned up on practically all the competition. Snead, who enlisted in the Navy after bagging the PGA title in 1942, is back to challenge them now.

Nelson, incidentally, finished in a fourth place tie yesterday at 296 for $1025 in War Bonds and McGspaden, far back, deadlocked with four others in eighth position with an even 300, and $225 in bonds.

Big Ted Longworth, local entry, maintained a steady pace to take third prize with a 295. He received for $1350 in War Bonds, five hundred dollars less than second place Turnesa.

The famous Black Sox scandal which brought a new form of baseball government came shortly after the last World War. The big leagues still were full of young players getting their first taste of big money and old times getting their last chance at it. The gambling wave was at flood tide and those two groups were approachable. No one questioned the integrity of the old national commission, but it failed to prevent that scandal. Under Landis' rule no one got excited this year when the news came out that a Washington pitcher had been approached to throw a game at the end of the season. Another good reason for appointing a commissioner whose reputation and whose powers will at least be near those of Landis comes from the past war problems. Baseball must face a glimpse of the huge national service lists of the clubs indicates how many boys might be affected if they came back to find baseball ruled entirely by representatives of the club owners. The magnates probably intend to be fair, but they don't always have the same ideas as the guys who work for a salary.

The War Today

By DeWitt MacKenzie

doing a workmanlike job of holding, and the weather has been lending him aid and comfort by plunging the Allies with icy rain and sleet and deep mud, his position is a most uncomfortable one. If he really has accepted the gage to combat in the Cologne plain he will indeed be a smart general if that isn't his last big battle.

Once he's committed to such a stand—and he seems to be so already—he will have fantastic luck if he is able to withdraw any considerable portion of his troops back across the Rhine. The bridges over that great and swift river are at the mercy of the Allied bombers and can be destroyed at any moment. Those bridges not only are Von Rundstedt's means of escape but they are also his life-lines for supplies.

So Von Rundstedt's assignment to fight a delaying action west of the Rhine looks like a suicide job. His task is to hang on for grim life in an effort to protract the war through the winter.

Meanwhile the magnificent French and American gains on the southern end of the line are most gratifying, and can develop into big things. However, at the present writing that front doesn't rank in importance with the northern zone.

"Little Mary" McCune; June Hoskinson as Bernice Niemeyer; Mrs. W. P. Ross as Madeleine Vaulaine; Agnes Grimes as Jean Maitland; Jeanette Bell as Bobby Melrose; Mrs. E. J. Lewald as Louise Mitchell; Bettie Alexander as Pat Devine; Bettie Lee Kennebrew as Kendall Adams; Henrietta Tucker as Mrs. Croust; James Hall as Fred Powell; and Mildred Miller as Mrs. Shaw.

Others in the cast who have appeared in previous plays here are Lorier Caplan as Frank, the houseman; Mrs. Caplan as Judith Can-

THEY'RE THE BUY-A-BOND BABIES

THE BACHANT TRIPLETS, whose daddy was killed in action in Normandy and had never seen them, get all fixed up for their role as super-salesmen in New York's Sixth War Loan drive. Mrs. Muriel Bachant, their mother, will speak for the "buy-a-bond-babies." (International) field; Ann McIntyre as Linda Shaw; Harold Parker as Sam Hastings; Elwood Hammill as Lou Hilhauser; Walter Hartsock as David Kingsley; William F. Ross as Dr. Randall; Franklin Smith as Adolph Gretzel; and Ora Anderson as Larry Westcott.

As might be expected in such a large cast, all types of characterizations will be found, ranging from high comedy to tragedy as the plot of the play moves swiftly from one contrasting sequence to another. The setting is a highly interesting one, being the "Footlights Club" a boarding house in New York City for girls who have a common ambition to see their name in lights on Broadway. The highly amusing as well as tragic events in their daily lives combine to present a rapid fire drama that is expected to prove one of the most popular plays given by the club.

Dress rehearsal will be held this evening at the High school and all production arrangements have been completed for the two-day show.

Approve Fund Drive

EAST LIVERPOOL, Nov. 27.—The Chamber of Commerce has given the "green light" to a public subscription campaign for $8,000 to provide the city with radio-equipped police cruisers.

The C. C. turned thumbs down on a bond issue because the city now owes $40,000 in long overdue bills.

Ant societies with striking parallels to human societies had developed fully 50,000,000 years ago.

Hunting Wounds Fatal

MARION, Nov. 27.—Ferdinand Lawrence, Jr., died today of a wound received accidentally while he hunted Saturday.

Dollars And Lives Are Saved By Front-Line Weathermen

Army Air Forces mobile weather station units like this one have moved forward with Allied troops in Italy and Western Europe, forecasting the weather for operations of both Air and Ground forces.

By ALLEN J. GREEN

WASHINGTON, Nov. 27.—Deliberately, against expert advice that his bomber would be ripped to splinters, Col. Floyd B. Wood drove into the teeth of a hurricane so fierce that it battered an American destroyer to her death and flattened houses.

Colonel Wood, 36-year-old deputy chief of the Army Air Forces weather service, had maintained a 36-hour vigil over his weather charts as the hurricane howled up the Atlantic coast. Then, with two other meteorological officers, he took off in a Douglas A-20 Havoc to intercept it off the Virginia capes.

In a 45-minute flight, the Colonel pierced to the approximate center of the hurricane and returned to disprove several textbook ideas on the structure of such storms. More important, American pilots now know that a large plane can in all probability safely negotiate a hurricane, "although it is not recommended as standard practice," according to the Colonel.

Meet Tomorrow's Storms. His feat, despite its daring, is but one of the achievements chalked up by the Service in the important task of winning the war by "affording the best possible weather service to all operations of the U. S. Army wherever they may be located."

In preparation for the Eighth Air Force's thundering raids on Germany, specially-equipped weather planes, including Flying Fortress, fly non-stop from England along the storm tracks to meet tomorrow's weather. Trained meteorologists examine instruments which make a continuous record of the temperature, pressure, humidity and air speed—plus certain electronic devices, details of which cannot be revealed—and report back by radio.

On the other side of the world where Army pilots keep China's lifeline intact by daily flights over the treacherous, cloud-veiled Burma-India theater is credited weather stations are operating in every extreme of climate from steaming jungles to freezing mountain tops. A weather officer in the China-Burma-India theater is credited with saving thousands of dollars by enabling medium bombers to make 11 missions over Burma with the gasoline formerly consumed in 10, through ingenious utilization of atmospheric conditions. Acting on his forecasts, one group was able to make more than 300 raids over Burma during the monsoon season with less than a three per cent weather failure.

Cited For Bravery

Mobile weather units, trucks and trailers packed with instruments roll out of landing craft along with the invasion forces. A miniature mobile station in a jeep landed on Sicily, furnished weather information for Allied planes and ground forces driving back the Germans. A few months later, the crew and jeep was flown to Salerno and, after several narrow escapes from counter-attacking Germans, followed the Allies up the Italian peninsula. Three members of the jeep's crew of weathermen received the Silver Star for their bravery. The Army's weathermen have suffered their share of casualties. Five were killed at Pearl Harbor by the Japs. A weather officer drowned in the surf off North Africa. A flying colonel died from dehydration and heat prostration while trying to make his way across the Egyptian Desert after crashing. A total of 58 casualties were reported in the first two years of war.

The Weather Service, which has expanded 9000 per cent since the war, turned out a total of 8000 forecasts last year. Of these, 455 were long-range forecasts ranging from 48 hours to 30 days, plus intensive climatic studies based on years of weather data reduced to punch cards and speedily digested and tabulated by electric machines. Its ultimate goal, expressed by a Pacific weather officer, is "to open a weather station on top of the emperor's palace in Tokyo."

Two German Planes Shot Down By Akron Captain

LONDON, Nov. 27.—Capt. Wilbur R. Scheible of Akron was credited with shooting down two German planes in the U. S. Eighth Air Force's engagement with the Luftwaffe over Mißburg, Germany, yesterday.

Elizabeth Devers, now 113, was in Georgia as Gen. Sherman marched through during the Civil war. She winked at him, he disregarded her but a soldier who caught the wink, winked back and she married him. Since then she's had eight husbands and outlived them all. (International)

SAYS URGE TO BUY MAY EBB WITH WAR

CHICAGO—Predictions that there will be a great rush to purchase all kinds of consumer goods as soon as wartime restrictions are lifted may prove to be illusory, John C. Goodall, general manager of the Merchandise Mart, said.

"Although many persons in replying to surveys have indicated an overwhelming desire for this or that article, human nature is such that their eagerness to buy may vanish the moment they realize they can actually get the merchandise they have been longing for all during the war," Goodall said.

He warned retailers they should not be complacent about the post-war prospects of an easy sellers market, during which it will be possible for a merchant to sit idly by and wait for the rush of customers eager to purchase any and every article offered for sale. Vigorous advertising and merchandising programs will be even more vital after the war than before, Goodall said.

In China divorces are permitted in cases of criminality, mutual dislike, jealousy, incompatibility, or too much talking by the wife.

AND NOW . . . CHET COPE PUTS IN HIS 2 CENTS' WORTH

In a few months new cars will probably be on the market and you will want a new one as soon as you can get it. If you find it necessary to finance part of the cost of either a new or used one, you should SEE US or YOUR BANK about the loan. You will not only be able to save considerable in the cost of that financing but you can then keep your insurance with your local agent who is interested in seeing you get fair claim settlement, which is not true of finance company insurance. The dealer finance company is only interested in their own protection. Remember, keep your insurance and your money in Salem. —Adv.
